Take Out The Stuffing

If some politicians got the idea from the tributes to Robert A. Taft that their shortcomings were being dramatized by the emphasis on his blunt integrity, they were right.

No one has patience any more with the kind of politicians, who are the opposite of Sen. Taft -the kind who used to sneer there would be no sale for his fortright honesty in dealing with issues and his refusal to trim his views for

No one has any patience with the kind of politicians who have been practicing their black art by stirring up issues against President Eisenhower, whose main appeal to voters is the obvious fact he is a novice in politics.

There is something about this so-called "game" of politics which isn't talked about as frankly as it should be talked about. That is the fact it is frequently subsidized by the sum total of human ignorance.

It is too often a process of smart, ruthless people taking advantage of the stupidity, avarice and passions of people who like to be fooled and lend themselves willingly to political foolery. It is unworthy of a free people.

If the practitioners of foolery have a sneaking suspicion they never looked drabber or scummier than they've looked by comparison with the late Sen. Taft, they are so right they should take the stuffing out of their shirts and learn what it feels like to fool none of the people none of the time because in America that is unworthy of a public servant.

The Test

The next time naked aggression occurs, the United States may be prepared to do something about it. The United Nations will be no better prepared than it was in 1950, but the United States has rearmed itself and mobilized a large fraction of its manpower.

It is prepared for the first time in its history to defend itself against potential enemies in a world that has not gone to war. The net effect of aggression in Korea - if there nothing elsecould be put down as a warning of imminent danger from Kremlin-bossed aggression. But can the United States stay strong without the spur of casualty lists?

Even before a Korean truce has existed long enough to be taken for granted, it is plain that all of us will need to think in a new dimension if national defense is going to be maintained at a high level.

The continuous drafting of manpower and the drain of taxation to buy weapons will be resisted. There will be the usual desire "to bring the boys home" and to stand pat with weapons which were good enough when the last fighting

Three times in this century, warmakers were encouraged to start their tragic mischief because the United States was obviously unprepared: World War I, World War II and the war in Korea.

A fourth time could be averted if the people of the United States served notice on their public representatives that they wanted to stay prepared and were willing to pay the price of averting war, if possible, and if not, of averting a military catastrophe.

The Goose

There is a thin note of cheer in the fact the 44 state governors now conferring in Seattle are getting down to brass tacks on the vital subject of overlapping taxes.

President Eisenhower, who is working with the governors on this problem, has been hammering since last spring on the futility and waste of tax duplication.

He and the governors are of one mind on the necessity of preserving the taxpaying goose against multiple raids of federal, state and local egg-gatherers and down-pluckers. For once in a taxpaying lifetime, the objective is not to get more eggs and more down but to keep the goose alive.

Since everybody who pays taxes falls in the goose category, what the governors decide to recommend to Congress and the state legislatures will be of general interest.

One thing becomes immediately evident to a taxpayer-that tax collectors will not abandon any of their prerogatives without a struggle. There will be no relief for the taxpaying geese as far as giving up eggs and down is concerned. But with better planning, there might be relief from persecution, confusion and wasteful overlapping. The same number of geese would produce more taxes if the gooseherds knew more about their business.

in breadth and smoothness. Pioneers have also developed a new and amazing institution, the motel. The services of such associations as the AAA have become indispensable. I only wish that the habits, manners and judgments of those who use those facilities had shown improvement, too.

It is the abiding sin of human nature to seize upon its own achievements to display an insensate capacity for selfish, capricious destruction. The race is always between costruction and destruction.

The joys of touring are abundant. The early rising in comfortable quarters, the good food in accessible restaurants, the keen morning air, the smooth highways, the matchless variation of scenery and the countryside, the friendly people at the gas stations-all these should make touring the best of all forms of rec-

But perils and tragedy increase as fast as the means of safety are created.

Curiously it seems that the craziest drivers are men and women who are carrying the most children with them.

I have in my memory a long succession of visions of whizzing cars with from two to five little heads bobbing beside the empty skulls of father and mother.

Wherever the roads have been built most carefully for comfort and safety such drivers create the maximum dangers. I also have beaten into my memory many horrible results of such insanity in mangled bodies and twisted wreckage. I have a score to pay against private enterprist, too - trucks

I have in mind an extremely dangerous highway through a mountain range where traffic on one beautiful afternoon was heavy. In a hundred miles I failed to see a single officer.

But I return to the individual driver. One of them on a treacherous mountain road decided on a down grade to pass a huge oil truck.

To the right of a driver who was going upgrade was a chasm a thousand feet deep. Only here and there, three or four feet of safety berm had been built at the side of the highway.

It happened in this case that the unfortunate innocent was able to pull onto one of these. That was his luck, not the calculation of the lunatic who came toward him. As the crazy car passed with inches to spare, at least three small heads were in evidence. And so, with some regret but a keen desire to live a while longer, I pay a long positive farewell to all my touring.

Ike and "Safety-First"

"President Eisenhower gave White House leadership to plans for a greater highway safety campaign in a Washington conference attended by top men in the world of auto manufacturing, truck transportation, advertising, radio, video, etc.," says an announcement.

. It is hard to refrain from a cynical, "Here we go again!" In the past year 38,000 were killed and 1,500,000 injured in auto accidents on the roads of the country, an all-time high, despite the fact that conferences for greater safety have been going on from the day of the first benzine buggy.

Hardly a season passes without a half dozen safety-first drives by national bodies. (It always seems to us to be a miracle that the delegates get to and from the meeting without being run over.)

We don't know what the promise of "White House leadership" means, but if Ike, with so many other things on his shoulders, can really find time to give it, he must realize that nothing would help more than a plain, direct statement in the genuine Eisenhower manner: "Boys, if we are leveling in this safety-first drive, we will cut the long speeches, minimize the hotel banquet routines and put the finger on the reasons for murder on the righway. Let's stop the foolish custom of holding con-man to do the rest. It takes no national conference to determine that the top causes of highway accidents are: 1-Overemphasis on the speed of the automobile by auto manufacturers, including some of the very top men participating in this campaign for safety.

How can we expect new drivers to develop a sense of personal responsibility when the car builders constantly glorify new gadgets which relieve the driver of responsibility and make car operation more and more of "a wrist motion"?

Aren't the kids coming up with the belief it takes no more personal alertness to operate a car than a juke-box?

2-An almost total lack of action by municipalities everywhere against the hell-for-leather operation of trucks as big as freight cars. Is there anybody who hasn't been a witness to the nightly hair-raising performance of trailer-trucks on any main artery, with complete disregard of white lines, speed limits and all

SAFETY FIRST CONVENTIONS? And will this paragraph bring the usual and traditional letter from the paid press agents of the trucking industry insisting that trucks are driven with the greatest regard for safety? (Brother, will it!!)

3-The use of tens-of thousands of policemen to check parking meters and function in minor traffic duties at a time when there is almost no policing of crowded highways. Isn't it screwy, boys, to put so much effort into a drive against a guy who fails to put an extra penny in a meter and so little effort into saving people from death a few blocks (Come on Ike! Show 'em that White House leadership isn't just a matter of a luncheon and

Gen. Douglas MacArthur got pretty "uppity" the other day with a stockholder who wanted to know whether he, as chairman of the board of a big corporation with a wide list of public investors, held any stock in the corporation. "It is nobody's business what I do with my funds," the general said quite emphatically. Well, general giving the customary salute, we think you dead wrong. . . Any stockholder in any great corporation likes to know that the directors, and especially the chairman of a board, thinks enough of the business to buy some shares. Many corporations in their reports to stockholders list the holdings of all officers and directors. . . ### 'Wizard Of Menlo Park' Made Magic With Invention Of Incandescent Lamp

The nameless spinner who first made sewing thread deserves some of the credit. And so does "Long-Waisted Mary Ann." But for the most part, the world owes its thanks for the services of modern electrical appliances to the "Wizard of Menlo Park"-Thomas Alva

By the time he was 29, Edison had realized $40,0000 from his successful models of a stock ticker, typewriter, and automatic telegraph system, and had already laid the foundation for the achievements of the next five years, which form one of the most important chapters of modern electrical history.

In 1876, Edison moved his family to Menlo Park,, N. J., where he established a laboratory and workshop.

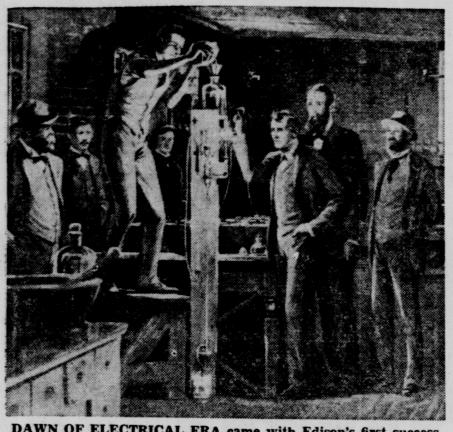

Within three years of establishing his laboratory-workshop, Edison had the basic design for the invention which was to revolutionize lighting all over the world-the incandescent lamp.

He had devised a hermetically sealed glass bulb, from which

Appliances Go Portable For Comfortable, Modern Living

Appliances are on the move. With the housewife constantly demanding that her household servants be versatile, manufacturers are trying to please her by making their products portable.

More and more appliances each year are being put on rollers, or made so they're easily carried, in order that the housewife can use them wherever they'll be most convenient at the moment.

The latest to go on wheels is the familiar kitchen refrigerator, known in its portable form as the electric refrigerette.

Mounted on an all-steel cart and topped with a large wooden serving tray, the refrigerette is a boon to devotees of take-it-easy summer living.

It can be wheeled from rocm to room, or out on the porch or terrace for the convenience of guest and host alike. Storage space is two cubic feet.

Besides being so convenient, the refrigerette is also attractive. Styled as a smart piece of furniturein blende, mahogany or white-it's equally appropriate for use in the is in the kitchen or on the patio.

most of the major pieces of laundry equipment. This fits in well with the desire of many homemakers to place their laundries upstairs, instead of in the basement. And, particularly in the case of the ironer, it often makes working more comfortable. Cook Where You Want To

An even bigger stride forward in the trend toward more mobility is reflected in the field of cooking equipment.

Once confined to toasters and sandwich grills, the list of portable cooking devices now includes several pieces, some of which can handle any type of cooking job, from frying to broiling to roasting.

Such items as the deep-fat fryer, the roaster, the electric griddle and hot plate, and the rotisserie, or electric barbecuer, have been perfected so rapidly in recent years that they now rank near the top on all lists of "most sought" appliances.

Especially ideal for apartments, kitchen, these units, in addition to being portable, often cook foods much faster than a range will, and are very easy to clean. Also available in portable form is a wide variety of heating units. Designed to give quick heat wherever and whenever it's needed. these units are extremely compact and light. On model, for instance, is only seven inches high and weighs about six pounds.

PORTABLE refrigerette, availin blonde, mahogany and white, has two cubic feet of storage space, makes summer entertaining most convenient.
